MILLMEN ABSENT FROM CONFERENCE

Effort to Settle the Lawrence Textile Strike
Last Night Came to Naught.

REFUSED TO GO INTO CONFERENCE

All Were Willing to Treat With Their Own Employes,
But Not With General Committee of All the Strikers—
William D. Haywood Arrives From the West and Utters Sensational Threats at Mass Meeting.

Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 24.—Prospect of an early general settlement of the strike of 15,000 textile workers in the city looked dim tonight when the mill owners representatives refused to enter a conference with a committee of 48 strikers in the presence of the state board of arbitration, at City hall. The strikers in the proceedings came apparently from the fact that the mill owners who appeared at City hall were empowered only to meet a committee of the striking employees of the mills which each represented, instead of a general committee.

American Woolen May Come to Terms.
Indications that the American Woolen company might come to terms with its employees independently of the other corporations affected, were given in a statement which was made by the representatives of that company to the state board of arbitration prior to the meeting.

Millmen Refused to Enter Conference.
While the strikers' committee, headed by Joseph E. Rector of New York and William D. Haywood, the western strike leader, took their places in the afternoon at the state board of arbitration, the representatives of the mill owners kept to themselves in the private office of Mayor Scanlon, a short distance away. All refused to enter the conference.

Haywood Speaks on Common.
Several thousand strikers massed on the common this afternoon, and there exposed to numerous snow squalls. Haywood, the western strike leader, took the stand and spoke for an hour to the thousands of strikers who gathered there. He declared that the strikers were in their demands and said that he intended to go west in a short time and secure aid for them.

Shut Off All Railroad Traffic.
"All you have to do is to keep the check upon yourselves and don't give the other side a chance to get you. If we must keep this strike on, we will do our best to shut off all railroad traffic to Lawrence."

Soldiers Could Be Starved Out.
He went on to say that the strike leaders would work so hard that he felt it would be possible to starve out and other necessities coming to Lawrence so that there would be no light or heat in the mills. He was also of the opinion that if it were found necessary the soldiers could be starved out of Lawrence.

Gift of $800 from Haverhill.
When Leader Rector addressed the crowd he asked how many would be in favor of continuing the strike should no agreement be reached at tonight's conference. The vote was practically unanimous to continue the fight. The shoe workers' protective union of Haverhill presented the strikers with $800 at the meeting.

Millmen Cheered and Hooted.
Following the open air meeting the strikers paraded through the city streets. All business on Essex street was brought to a standstill while the strikers, accompanied by a band of brass bands played popular airs and many of the persons in the parade carried American flags. The strikers while some cheered and others hooted at the millmen were orderly and there was no sign of trouble. No attempt was made to invade the mill district.
